Comer unon ab... [The text is a dense, handwritten document in a historical Spanish cursive script, likely a census or legal record. It contains numerous lines of text, many of which are crossed out with horizontal lines. The document appears to be a list or a set of accounts, possibly related to land or property, as suggested by the word 'otorgada' in the footer. The handwriting is very fluid and characteristic of the late 15th or early 16th century. There are several large, decorative initials or flourishes interspersed throughout the text, particularly at the beginning and end of sections. The paper shows signs of age, with some staining and wear, especially on the left side where the text is partially obscured by a tear or fold. The overall layout is that of a single page from a larger book or manuscript.

[A large, decorative flourish or signature at the bottom center of the page, consisting of several overlapping loops and lines, possibly representing the name of the scribe or a specific official.
